Formidable Task

THIS summer's session of L the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations was much over-shadowed by other events in Geneva. It could hardly compete in public interest with either the Big Four "summit" meeting or the conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. It is, perhaps, regrettable that the process of penceful cooperation between nations, when not made exciting by such themes as atomic power or rocket satellites, is apt to make dull reading and therefore is deprived of publicity. But that does not make it unimportant.

Police Foil Bid To Overthrow FreedAirman To Government Of Argentina

ARRESTS WIDESPREAD

Buenos, Aires, Aug. 15. The Federal police claimed today they had thwarted a plot to assassinate President Peron and to overthrow his government by armed revolt.

Police said the assassination plot against the President was to have been carried out today from rented apartments near his residence in the fashionable Palermo suburb. A number of Opposition politicians suspected of complicity in the plot were arrested, police

THERE was less open Communist activity in Singapore last year than at any time since the emergency was declared in 1948, according to the Annual Report for the Colony, published here today
for the Colonial Office,

The Report says that although this was largely due to police action, there were other important contributory factors.
The change in the international political situation following the Foreign Ministers!
Geneva conference on the Far East in 1954 had undoubledly been one of them, and the Parly's success in secret manipulations of a growing Chinese students' movement in the Colony has provided an important alternative for Communist efforts.

In the first half of the year the Malayan Communist Party was responsible for the murder of three police officers in | BOLE AGENTS: DODWELL & CO., LTD. Singapore and the attempted murder of another police officer and three civilians. During the second half of the year, there were no Communist outrages in the city but the Party was known to have concentrated on reorganisation, Party education and secret penetration of school students and trade unions.

The Report said: "It is certain that the Malayan Communist Party is prepared to resort to violence to maintain the atmosphere of intimidation which enables them to undermine normal forms of authority, such as between parent and child, teacher and student, or employer and employee."—Reuter.

on the Waters

HE 1914-18 war is mostly a string of memories to such as took part in it. One stands out clearly in my memory to this day. It concerns Able Seaman Arthur Brown, one of the lower-deck crew of the Q-brig that it fell to my duty to command in 1918.

· Brown might be considered the ship's bad bargain, I suppose. He had best part of 20 years' service under the White Ensign, and there was no more chance of his winning promotion than there was of me becoming an admiral. Not that he

This Time King Better Than Ace

By OSWALD JACOBY

TF you had the South cards in L today's hand, which would you rather hold at the head of your clubs—the king or the ace? Naturally you'd rather have an nce than a king, but the actual declarer would debate the point with you.

When the hand was played, West opened a low diamond. East put up the queen, and South won with the ace. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy, and led the queen of clubs for a finesse. South couldn't have made this serious error if he had held the king of clubs rather than the acc.

West won with the king of clubs and shifted to a heart. Dummy had to take the ace, and now South, who would have to sacrifice his club ten to enter his two remaining trumps. Noclubs failed to break.

South made his mistake, as we noticed, when he led the queen of clubs from the dummy. He should have led a low club would lose to the king, of have three club tricks (with the get involved. ace, jack, and queen) instead of only two. Even if the finesse won, South would continue with the acc of clubs and then a low club, thus making sure of three tricks in the suit. South couldn't have misplayed this hand if his clubs had been K-10-4. After drawing trumps, he would have led the king or ten of clubs, making sure of three tricks in the suit. It was the acc of clubs that led him into tempta-

Search For Sunken Ships In Naples

Rome, Aug. 14.

A distinguished Italian archaeologist and a champion underwater sportsman plan to make what they claim will be the world's first organised undersea archaeological explorations late this summer.

They are Professor Amedeo Maturi, who superintended the systematic excavations at Pompeii and is considered the world's greatest authority on the archaeologically fabulous areas round the Bay of Naples, and Signor Raimonde Bucher, a specialist in underwater photography, fishing and exploring.

Signor Bucher stated in an Agripping, by his hired assassins, interview that the zone of was buried by a natural sinking operations will be the Bay of of the coastline in this area Naples, where levely Patrician about 500 years ago. villas, city suburbs, ports and, a | "Archaeologists have known of blanket of mud and sand.

Signor Bucher says that he has seen traces of walls, squares, roofs, and a temple, believed by Professor Maiuri to be one of the many dedicated to Venus, the Goddess of Love, at a depth of 15 to 20 metres (50 to 65 feet) at what will be the site of the first explorations.

Rich Harvest

The two most perfect Imperial Roman vessels yet rescued from the past were fished out of the volcanic lake of Nemi, south of Rome, in 1928, but were wilfully damaged by the Germans during the World War II.

In any case archaeologists consider the two ships purely luxury vessels and not representative of the style of fighting and cargo ships of the time. Professor Majuri believes that the Bay of Naples could yield a rich harvest of such ships, many probably well preserved, for a great gale sank most of the Roman fleet here in Nero's

Merchant vessels, too, were frequent victims of sudden storms in the bay, and hundreds were probably sent to the bottom with their cargoes, mainly of wine. Wirle predominated because the Roman Senate had, in the second and first centuries before Christ, forbidden the culti#### vation of grape-vines in Gaul to safeguard home production.

Imported The Gauls were thus forced to import their wine from Naples and ships bulging with scaled amphora sailed from Naples to ports in Gaul with such regularity and frequency that the sea-lane became known as "the route of Dionysus" (God of Wine). Professor Majuri and Signor Bucher hope that if the carly stages of their explorations are fruitful, they will receive financial backing from the Government or from philanthropists to enable them to deepen their re-search in this great, virgin field of undersea archaeology.-China Mail Special.

MARKET

New York, Aug. 15. Only a handful of stocks changed more than a fraction today, as market interest dwindled to the lowestpoint in 18 months, Stock volume fell off to a mere 1,230,000 shares-lightest since Jan 11,-compared with 1,530,000 on Friday while the number of issues appearing on the tapejust 1,100—was the lightest since Jan. 13, 1954. There were 407 lower, and 477 higher.

A 3 point drop in Du Pont, reflecting disappointment with the 25 per cent dividend increase, along with losses of nearly 2 points in Procter & Gamble and in John-Manville, pulled the industrial average down almost a point. A few issues outside the average group moved widely-as much as a 6point rise in Zenith-but most changes were very narrow as traders awaited further indication of the market's future

Prices farmers received were first to decline before the onset of the 1930 depression. But there was no crop support programme then to put a floor beneath the darmers' locome.

The credit curbs were mild. The Federal Reserve system increased its discount rate — the interest it charges member banks to borrow money. The Federal housing administration and the veterans' administration raised down payments and shortened repayment time on guaranteed loans on houses.

Reaction to these steps has been mixed.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, a member of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, praised the "mild" restraints. "Too much credit is always

IN an East End street that was evening - quiet, motorcycle and - Hide-car phutted to a stop outside a scrap-metal merchant's yard. Frederick, the driver, and Sydney, his passenger, dis-mounted and began to unload sacks from the side-car. As they did so, two strangers appeared from the shadows.

"We're police officers," one of the strangers sald. "What have you got in those sacks?" "Scrap metal, course," Frederick answered.

"Where dld you get it?" "Off the bomb site," said Frederick, and began to explain.

FROM BOMB SITE THE plain-clothes officers rum-I maged among the assortment of old lead and 'copper wire the sacks contained. Then one said: "We're arresting you for being in unlawful possession of all this." , ." Frederick began, and as he and his friend were led off to the police-station, he tried once again to explain.

At Clerkenwell Court, next morning, Frederick and Sydney both pleaded not guilty to the charge against them, and the first of the two policemen who had arrested them went into the witness-box to tell his story to Mr Seymour Collins, the magis-

Victoria Ot Queen Be Re-Erected Tomorrow

The renovated statue of Queen Victoria, one of Hongkong's oldest and best known landmarks before the war, will be set up in its new site at Victoria Park, Causeway Bay tomorrow (Wednesday) morning.

Already a massive granite plinth seven feet in height has been erected in a small square facing the main entrance to the Park. On this pedestal will be placed the bronze statue of the Queen — to become once again a permanent memorial to the Colony's history.
